INTRODUCTION

The indicators of educational globalization are shown from international relationship from one university and other universities, the students' exchanges, and the amount of published research findings as articles journals of every university. There should be an activity which accommodates those indicators to be reached.

Therefore, in order to fulfill those needs, Indonesia University of Education (UPI) is planning to carry out an International conference with the topic: "The third IPCORE: Strengthening Education through High Quality Educational Research". The two indicators are fulfill through this event; conducting international relationship among the other universities abroad (especially in scope of ASEAN countries) and facilitating all postgraduate studies' students and lecturers to propose their articles.
